TIME WARNER CABLE SUPPORTS GULL WINGS CHILDREN'S MUSEUM

Gull Wings is proud recipient of a Time Warner Cable grant of $10,000 to build its newest exhibit, 'Microscopic World'

OXNARD, CALIF. (December 22nd, 2010) – Gull Wings Children's Museum, the only nonprofit children's museum in Ventura County, is the proud recipient of a $10,000 grant donated by Time Warner Cable.

The funds will be used to build the new "Microscopic World" exhibit, which will feature a California Content Standards-based STEM education approach for hands-on science discovery, including basics of the scientific method, viruses, bacteria, magnification, DNA, and scientific field work. The exhibit's goal is to help children to uncover the beauty of science and to encourage them to want to be scientists when they grow up. The new Microscopic World exhibit is scheduled to open in Spring 2011.

"Gull Wings Children's Museum continues to lead the way in providing exceptional educational opportunities for children in the region," said Stephen Fofanoff, Chairman of the Board. "As one of the first children's museums on the West Coast, we are proud of our continued partnerships with corporate leaders like Time Warner Cable who share our mission of teaching children of all ages about the world around them. The Microscopic World is just the latest in a long line of achievements we celebrate as we prepare for our 25th Anniversary serving Ventura County and beyond."

"Time Warner Cable will be increasingly dependent on a highly technical workforce," said Time Warner Cable Regional Director Katie Beardsley. "Every opportunity to promote STEM learning today helps us inspire young people to become problem solvers of tomorrow. We are pleased the Gull Wings Children's Museum is taking an innovative approach to supporting our efforts to engage youth in a creative, real-world STEM learning opportunity."

"Gull Wings is excited to partner with Time Warner Cable on a modern, hands-on exhibit that will spark children's creative thinking and engage their curiosity about science. Their generous grant will inspire the next generation of scientists, who may someday find the cure to life-threatening diseases," said Tiffani Hill, Gull Wings' new Director of Development. "The Museum is grateful for the continuing support of the corporate community to serve the children and families of Ventura County. We are sure Time Warner Cable's example will encourage other donors to participate as they evaluate the tangible impact of their contributions."
